- Gold steadied on Thursday, hovering below Tuesday's seven-week high, as investors awaited U.S. jobs data for further clues on the outlook for interest rates. Gold rallied through most of July as the dollar fell on reduced expectations for a third U.S. rate increase this year. Inflation has been contained even though the labor market appears to be in its best shape in many years and despite double-digit U.S. earnings growth in the second quarter. Reduced rate rise expectations tend to weaken the dollar, making dollar-priced gold cheaper for non-U.S. investors.
- Oil prices fell on Thursday, as cautious buying dried up after U.S. crude rose to near $50 a barrel, with concern about high crude supplies from producer club OPEC offsetting the previous day's data showing record U.S. gasoline demand. OPEC crude oil exports rose to a record high in July, driven largely by soaring exports from the group's African members, according to a report by Thomson Reuters Oil Research. U.S. light crude has remained below $50 a barrel, capped by robust domestic supplies. Strong demand in the United States has been supporting prices. The U.S. Energy Information Administration reported record gasoline demand of 9.84 million barrels per day (bpd) for last week and a fall in commercial crude inventories of 1.5 million barrels to 481.9 million barrels
- Copper held near two-year highs on Thursday and nickel rose for a 10th straight session, supported by expectations of stronger demand from top consumer China and a weak dollar though gains were limited by profit-taking. Growth in China's services sector slowed in July, a survey showed on Thursday, but data earlier showed manufacturing grew strongly, underpinning demand for metals. New orders for U.S.-made goods saw their biggest increase in eight months, but manufacturing is expected to continue to grow at a moderate pace.

INTERNATIONAL AND COMEX NEWS

- MCX Gold and Silver may witness rangebound to choppy trade in line with international market but bias remains positive. COMEX gold trades mixed near $1270/oz amid position squaring ahead of US non-farm payrolls data today. Non-farm payrolls report will help form expectations for Fed's monetary policy and thereby further trend in US dollar. Supporting price is choppy in US dollar and equity market amid mixed economic data and concerns about Trump administration. Concerns about Trump have risen amid reports that US Special Counsel Robert Mueller is said to have impaneled a grand jury in the ongoing Russia probe. Weighing on price are signs of weaker demand from India. World Gold Council report showed that Indian gold demand fell 10% year on year to 953.4 tonnes in Q2.
- Most Base metals on LME trade in a narrow range in early trades today following choppy movement yesterday. LME Lead was the outperformer with 0.6% gains followed by 0.3% gains in Nickel prices. In other metals, Copper closed unchanged while Aluminium and Zinc ended 0.5% and 0.3% lower respectively. Most base metals trade little changed today amid mixed cues. On positive note, prices may continue to seek support from choppy in US Dollar Index along with hopes of robust demand outlook from top consumer China.
- MCX Crude may witness choppy trade in line with international market but bias remains positive. NYMEX crude trades mixed near $49 per barrel amid lack of clear cues. Choppy in equity market and US dollar is affecting crude price. Mixed inventory report and mixed economic data from major economies has added to choppy. Crude may witness choppy trade however we expect buying interest to persist ahead of OPEC's Aug.7-8 meeting on compliance with production cuts.
