17 TH JULY 2019

- Oil steadied after falling more than 3% overnight, with U.S. crude trailing Brent after U.S. inventory data fell short of expectations, amid conflicting signals from the U.S. and Iran over the disputes that have roiled prices recently. Brent crude futures were up 16 cents at $64.51, or 0.3% by 0027 GMT. They ended 3.2% down the previous session, after falling to the lowest since July 5. West Texas Intermediate crude futures were up 1 cent at $57.63. They fell 3.3% on Wednesday, having fallen to the lowest since July 9. Iran denied it was willing to negotiate over its ballistic missile program, contradicting a claim by U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, and appearing to undercut Trump's statement that Washington had made progress on its disputes with Tehran.

INTERNATIONAL AND COMEX NEWS

- The U.S. appears ready to negotiate with Iran while walking away from talks with China. How these developments factor for gold will be clear in coming days. But for now, prices of the yellow metal are taking a dip.
- Spot gold, reflective of trades in bullion, traded at $1,405.65 per ounce by 2:24 PM ET (18:24 GMT), down $8.36, or 0.6%, on the day. Gold futures for August delivery, traded on the Comex division of the New York Mercantile Exchange, settled down $2.30, or 0.2%, at $1,411.20. U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo claimed that "for the first time" on Tuesday Iranian officials "are ready to negotiate on their missile program" after President Donald Trump apparently told a cabinet meeting that his administration had made progress with Tehran and did not wish war or regime change there.
